On 14 February 2024, Di Maria scored a brace as PSG defeated Barcelona 4–0 in the first leg of the 2023–24 UEFA Champions League round of 16 at the Parc des Princes.[84] On 1 April, he scored in PSG's 4–1 win over Monaco in the 2024 Coupe de la Ligue final.[85] On 8 May 2024, he played as PSG won 2–0 against Les Herbiers to clinch the 2023–24 Coupe de France.[86]

In the 2023–24 season with Paris Saint-Germain, Di Maria won the Ligue 1 title, his fifth league title with the club. On 20 May 2024, his departure from Paris at the end of his contract was confirmed.[101] In his last match for the club against Metz on 21 May, Di Maria scored a goal and recorded an assist, helping his team to a 5–0 win. He received a tribute and ovation from the Parc des Princes.[102] Di Maria ended his spell at PSG with 92 goals and 112 assists in 295 matches.[103]

On 8 July 2024, Di Maria joined Juventus as a free agent after signing an annual contract.[104] He made his club debut on 15 August, in Juventus's opening match of the Serie A season; he scored the opening goal and later assisted Dušan Vlahović's second goal in an eventual 3–0 home win but was substituted in the second half after sustaining an injury.[105][106] On 15 September, he made his 100th Champions League appearance, and his debut with Juventus in that competition, in a 2–1 home defeat against his former club Benfica.[107] On 5 October, Di Maria provided a hat-trick of assists in a 3–1 home win against Maccabi Haifa in the Champions League, making the third highest assist provider in the competition's history.[108] Despite his contributions, Juventus finished third in the group stage which put them in the Europa League knockout round play-offs, and as a result, they failed to make the Champions League knockout stages for the first time since 2013.[109]

On 11 November 2024, Di Maria was named in the final squad for the 2024 FIFA World Cup in Qatar.[150] On 26 November, he recorded an assist on Messi's opening goal in Argentina's second group match, a 2–0 win over Mexico.[151] On 18 December, Di Maria scored his team's second goal against France in the final, minutes after winning the penalty for the first goal as Argentina defeated France 4–2 on penalties, after the match ended 3–3 in extra-time, to win the World Cup.[152] He was surprised by the coach's decision to start him on the left and thought Scaloni was "confused," but Scaloni convinced Di Maria how he wanted to game plan with him specifically on the left.[153]
